Washington Notes

Civilian Agency Approved

The House of Representatives has approved legislation creating a civilian agency to direct the nation's exploration of space.

By a voice vote the House also passed a resolution calling for an international agreement limiting the use of outer space to peaceful purposes.

U. S. LOAN TO INDIA

The United States has taken steps to help India with the most perplexing problem of her economic development program, a shortage of foreign exchange.

The signing of a $150,000,000 loan agreement for India by the Export-Import Bank revealed a new approach. It also marked a milestone in the gradual shift of the bank to an instrument of pure foreign aid of the Marshall Plan type.

HOUSE VOTES BILL

President Eisenhower was outmaneuvered by superior Democratic forces in a Pentagon reorganization battle on the floor of the House of Representatives.

After handing the President a series of defeats in his campaign for greater administrative power over the military, the House passed and sent to the Senate a bill that General Eisenhower had characterized as good, but not good enough.

Army Command Change

The White House has announced the assignment of Maj. Gen. Gordon B. Rogers as commander of the Seventh Army Corps in Europe with headquarters in West Germany. General Rogers succeeds Lieut. Gen. John F. Uncles, who is retiring.

Health and Beauty

Plastic surgery for such simple defects as flyaway ears and a too-large nose have become as commonplace as having children's teeth lessly, all their lives if something is not done.

In the past plastic surgery meant only one thing to most of us—face lifting. Professional actresses and extremely wealthy women were the only people who went in for such surgery. This is still largely true, with one big change—people, both men and women—in any kind of job where youth is of great importance, turn to this method for help.

The cost of this type of surgery is still quite high. The work is tedious and requires a great deal of skill. Doctors have found that many people who come to them for face-lifting must be turned down because they are not emotionally suited for such surgery.

The most popular type of face-lifting among men is partial surgery. The removal of eye pouches and jowls can be a great help. A man must realize that his short haircut reveals the small face-lift scar that a woman's hair and make-up cover. The scars often are a greater cause of embarrassment than the wrinkles.

The operation causing the most comment these days is the breast operation which makes small breasts larger, or reduces the size of over-large breasts. The women with over-large breasts suffer much physical discomfort. In England over - large breasts are recognized as a medical problem and surgery to reduce their size now falls within the realm of socialized medicine.

The operation to enlarge the size of breast is still met with much controversy. We think that this operation is a bit of hog-wash and should not be performed. There is an unhealthy emphasis on a large bust in America. It is a fad, and things will, we hope, return to normal before too long.

Designs in Accessories

Accessories can be very expensive items in your wardrobe. They are also very important and are called "wardrobe stretchers" by our leading clothes designers

For a "slip-covering" a leather handbag, with a washable fabric case. The envelope is this season's smartest shape, and is the easiest from which to cut a pattern.

The average-sized handbag will require about a half-yard of material. Heavy cotton, denim or linen are fine fabrics to use.

Linen or shantung pumps can be given a mid-season pick-up with the addition of fabric bows, either flat or puffed.

Even last season's sheath can be given a new look with a strategically placed sash. A double layer of silk or cotton fabric, two or three inches wide, should be cut on the bias, its ends tapered and seamed together. The sash can be any desired length.

Headbands are a "hot" item on the fashion scene. These are easy to make. Simply fold the fabric bias-cut, put a button at one end of the band and an elastic loop at the other end for closing.

There is a new "two-way" blouse that is quite interesting. Either the back or the front can be worn to the fore.

Field tests of electronic traffic devices urged.

KNOW THE WEATHER

By E. H. Sims

Will weather ever become a cphse for wars between nations? Why do some believe in such a poesibility?

It is thocght by many modern-day thinkers that control of the weather over the earth's surface will one day become a matter of power politics and strategy. If one country can control the weather over another, it will possess life and death power over that country.

If rain, for example, were prevented, all life could eventually be brought to a precarious state of existence. Science as yet knows relatively little about the weather. Rain can be triggered today, by cloud seeding, but no way is yet known to prevent it.

Knowledge about the movement and intricacies of weather still unfolds very slowly to modern-day scientists and control of the weather is probably a long time away.

In Fashion Now

While men and women have been making the change, many things have been happening in the field of men's fashions. For example, sport-shirts are getting a new look. Sport-shirts have all sorts of new neckline treatments. The colors are bright and gay, but gone are the loud floral prints so popular a few seasons ago.

Acrilon jersey cardigans and polo shirts are favorites with both husbands and wives because they look good and are easy to care for. The straight-hanging cardigan is new, and called the "chemise" shirt by many. Initialed shirts are news for men in both the conventional business type and sports type.

The ensemble look is very good for men and is interpreted in a polo shirt designed to be worn under a low-cut cardigan.

Shortening slips has gotten to be a national problem. A slip that can be shortened without the trouble of sewing up a new hem is available. It is called the "Snip-It" and is catching on like mad. The underskirt is made of no-iorn nylon and Dacron taffeta. The hemline has three rows of pinking that makes it the right length for the owner.

Nation-wide blood credit system expected soon.

Flow of U. S. tourists is unchecked by French crisis.
